ORDERS TO SHOW CAUSE

Pending before the Court are five discovery-related motions. First, Plaintiff filed a motion to deem requests admitted or compel proper responses as to requests for admissions served on Defendant Zimmer. Docket No. 57. Defendant filed a response and Plaintiff filed a reply. Docket Nos. 72, 75. Second, Plaintiff filed a motion to deem requests admitted or compel proper responses as to requests for admissions served on Defendants Bryant, Arnel, and Wilson. Docket No. 86. Defendants filed a response and Plaintiff filed a reply. Docket Nos. 104-1, 111. Third, Plaintiff filed a motion for sanctions. Docket No. 117. Defendants filed a response and Plaintiff filed a reply. Docket Nos. 118, 123. Fourth, Plaintiff filed a motion regarding disputed interrogatories. See Docket No. 79. Defendants filed a response and Plaintiff filed a reply. See Docket No. 105-1, 116. Fifth, Plaintiff filed a motion to extend discovery. Docket No. 62. Defendants filed a response and Plaintiff filed a reply. Docket Nos. 74, 79.

The Court finds the motion on the disputed interrogatories to be properly decided without oral argument. See Local Rule 78-2. The other motions came on for hearing on September 24, 2014. See Docket No. 125.

1 The Court will address each motion in turn below. For all briefing submitted by Plaintiff, the Court
 2 notes that he is a pro se prisoner and, therefore, the Court construes his papers liberally. See, e.g., 3 Blaisdell v. Frappiea, 729 F.3d 1237, 1241 (9th Cir. 2013) (“Courts in this circuit have an obligation to 4 give a liberal construction to the filings of pro se litigants, especially when they are civil rights claims by 5 inmates”).¹

6 I. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

7 This is a prisoner civil rights case brought pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Plaintiff brings causes of 8 action against the following individuals: A. Zimmer, correctional sergeant; Bryant, correctional lieutenant; 9 an unnamed state mailroom supervisor; C. Arnel, correctional caseworker; C. Burson, associate warden; 10 and B. Wilson, correctional sergeant.² Plaintiff’s claims arise from serious allegations of misconduct. For 11 example, Plaintiff alleges that, during his incarceration at Ely State Prison, he was falsely accused of a rule 12 violation by Defendant Zimmer and was wrongly held in administrative/disciplinary segregation for 59 days 13 pending adjudication of the charges. In particular, Plaintiff alleges that, while eating breakfast in the prison 14 culinary on March 23, 2011, he made a comment to the inmate sitting at his table, responding to an 15 exchange between other inmates and Defendant Zimmer by saying: “That’s exactly why that shit happened 16 in the kitchen, talking to grown ass men like that.”³ After returning to his assigned cell in general 17 population, Plaintiff was told to “roll up” his property, he was placed in restraints, and he was taken to the 18 disciplinary/administrative segregation unit. Plaintiff alleges that he was placed in segregation because 19 Defendant Zimmer falsely charged him with disciplinary rule violations that included delaying and 20 hindering staff, making threats, and organizing a work stoppage or demonstration. Defendant Bryant signed 21 the notice of charges, along with Defendant Zimmer. Plaintiff alleges that the charges against him were

27 ² The background section is taken in large part from the screening orders entered in this case. See 28 Docket No. 16, amended in part by Docket No. 40.

29 ³ A few weeks prior to making this statement, there was a confrontation in the inmate kitchen 30 between a worker and staff.

1 dismissed as unfounded and meritless. These factual allegations support several causes of action found 2 sufficiently pled to proceed to discovery.

3 Plaintiff also alleges numerous other causes of action based on additional factual allegations. For 4 example, he alleges a claim for excessive force arising out of a March 9, 2012, incident with Defendant 5 Wilson. Plaintiff alleges that he faced the wall and got on his knees pursuant to Defendant Wilson's order.
 6 Plaintiff alleges that Defendant Wilson then came from behind him and pushed plaintiff's head into the 7 wall, and then "proceeded to use his 'hinged' wrist restraints as a weapon by slamming them on and 8 cranking them down so tight, until I lost circulation in my hands to induce pain." Plaintiff alleges that the 9 restraints caused severe pain, deep imprints, and redness in his wrists.

10 All told, Plaintiff is proceeding with seven causes of action. Currently pending before the Court 11 are four discovery-related motions filed by Plaintiff asserting that Defendants have failed to comply with 12 their discovery obligations in this case, in addition to a motion to extend the discovery period. The Court 13 addresses each of those motions below in turn. In light of the circumstances of this case, the Court also 14 issues several orders to show cause directed to Defendants and Defendants' counsel.

15 II. FIRST MOTION TO DEEM REQUESTS FOR ADMISSIONS ADMITTED (Docket No. 57);
 16 ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE

17 This motion disputes Defendant Zimmer's responses to numerous requests for admission served 18 by Plaintiff. See Docket No. 57; see also Docket No. 57-1 at 1 (challenging responses to requests for 19 admission 1-6, 11-13, 16, 19, 20, 22-24, and 32). Plaintiff argues that the responses to these requests for 20 admission were deficient on numerous grounds, and that the Court should deem the matters admitted 21 pursuant to Rule 36 or, alternatively, order appropriate responses be made. See, e.g., Docket No. 57 at 9.⁴
 22 Defendant Zimmer resists, making several threshold arguments about the propriety of Plaintiff's motion 23 and some arguments specific to particular requests for admission. See Docket No. 72. The Court finds that 24 Defendant's arguments lack merit.

 26
 27
 28 ⁴ Unless otherwise specified, references to "Rules" refer to the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

1 A. Recourse to File a Motion With the Court

2 As discussed in more detail below, one of Plaintiff's primary arguments is that Defendant 3 improperly responded to the disputed requests for admission by asserting a lack of sufficient knowledge.
 4 Defendant makes a threshold argument that Plaintiff is without recourse to bring such a challenge because 5 Defendant provided a response to each request for admission. See Docket No. 72 at 3 ("Plaintiff does not 6 dispute that Defendant answered the discovery at issue. He simply disagrees with the answers he 7 received").⁵ Such an argument is contrary to the text of Rule 36 and binding Ninth Circuit authority. In 8 particular, Rule 36 provides, in pertinent part, that:

9 The requesting party may move to determine the sufficiency of an answer or objection.
 10 Unless the court finds an objection justified, it must order that an answer be served. On finding that an answer does not comply with this rule, the court may order either that the matter is admitted or that an amended answer be served.

12 Rule 36(a)(6) (emphasis added). Hence, the Rule makes clear that providing a non-compliant answer to 13 a request for admission can indeed lead to an order deeming a matter admitted or requiring an amended 14 answer.

15 Defendant's argument is also inconsistent with binding Ninth Circuit authority. In particular, the 16 Ninth Circuit has indicated that:

17 It is also clear that an evasive denial, one that does not "specifically deny the matter," or a response that does not set forth "in detail" the reasons why the answering party cannot truthfully admit or deny the matter, may be deemed an admission. Since such 19 a response does not comply with the literal requirements of Rule 36, the district court may, 19 in its discretion, deem the matter admitted.

20 Asea , Inc. v. S. Pac. Transp. Co., 669 F.2d 1242, 1245 (9th Cir. 1981) (emphasis added). The primary 21 dispute in that case was whether the propounding party had recourse through the Court when the response

23 ⁵ Defendants' briefing on the pending motions often includes cursory arguments and is not always 24 clear. At times, the Court may refer to briefing on another motion that more clearly articulates the position 25 that Defendants' counsel appears to be trying to make in the briefing on the motion being discussed. On this 26 particular issue, Defendants' counsel elsewhere elaborated that: "Of course, as is obvious from Plaintiff's 27 motion in which he quotes Defendants' responses, Defendants responded to Plaintiff's requests. While 28 Plaintiff may wish to dispute the adequacy of Defendants' responses, he cannot dispute that Defendants did 28 in fact respond, which renders unavailable the remedy of having his requests deemed admitted." Docket No.
 28 83 at 2 (emphasis added).

1 asserted that a reasonable inquiry was undertaken prior to asserting a lack of sufficient knowledge. See id.
 2 at 1245-46. The Ninth Circuit held that the propounding party may move the Court for relief even though 3 the requirements of Rule 36 appeared to be met on the face of the response:

4 We hold, therefore, that a response that fails to admit or deny a proper request for admission 5 does not comply with the requirements of Rule 36(a) if the answering party has not, in fact, 6 made “reasonable inquiry,” or if information “readily obtainable” is sufficient to enable him 7 to admit or deny the matter. A party requesting an admission may, if he feels these requirements have not been met, move to determine the sufficiency of the answer, to compel a proper response, or to have the matter ordered admitted.

8 Id. at 1247 (emphasis added). This holding plainly precludes Defendant’s argument that Plaintiff is without 9 recourse to challenge the responses provided simply because there was some response.

10 In short, a responding party’s responses to requests for admission are not insulated from Court 11 review simply because he provided some response. Cf. id. at 1246 (“The discovery process is subject to the 12 overriding limitation of good faith”). Accordingly, the Court finds that Rule 36 and Ninth Circuit authority 13 allow Plaintiff to challenge the sufficiency of Defendant’s responses to the requests for admission and to 14 seek an order deeming the matters admitted.

15 B. Meet-and-Confer

16 Parties are required to engage in a good faith consultation to resolve discovery disputes prior to 17 filing discovery motions. See, e.g., Local Rule 26-7(b).⁶ Defendant argues as a threshold matter that the 18 motion should be denied outright because Plaintiff failed to engage in a good faith effort to resolve the 19 dispute and, instead, that his meet-and-confer efforts show that he is simply harassing Defendant. See 20 Docket No. 72 at 2-3. Defendant bases these assertions on his contention that Plaintiff provided seven days 21 to respond to his meet-and-confer letter. Id.

22 Defendant’s position is not tenable, as Plaintiff did not provide only seven days to respond to his 23 letter before filing his motion. Instead, he sent his meet-and-confer letter on or about April 23, 2014 and

 26

 27 ⁶ The rules generally require a “personal consultation” to be considered a sufficient meet-and-confer 28 effort, but that requirement does not apply in the context of prisoner civil rights litigation. See, e.g., *Bailey
 v. Suey*, 2014 WL 5342573, *2 (D. Nev. Oct. 20, 2014) (exchange of letters can be sufficient when one party is a prisoner).

1 provided Defendants' counsel with more than two weeks to either respond with amended responses or set 2 up a telephone conference:

3 I hope this will allow the Defendant to answer fully and responsively. If you should have 4 any further questions, please set up a phone conference so that we can discuss this matter 5 and resolve without court involvement. If I do not receive amended responses by May 8, 2014 or, have a phone conference with you, I will take that as your response and my good faith effort exhausted. Thank you for your cooperation.

6 See Docket No. 57-1 at 25. Consistent with that assertion, Defendant did not file his motion until May 12, 7 2014. See Docket No. 57.⁷ Judged in the context of the actual facts of the meet-and-confer process, 8 Plaintiff clearly satisfied his obligation to attempt in good faith to resolve the dispute prior to filing the 9 pending motion. Cf. F.D.I.C. v. 26 Flamingo, LLC, 2013 WL 2558219, *1 (D. Nev. June 10, 2013) 10 (quoting De Leon v. CIT Small Business Lending Corp., 2013 WL 1907786 (D. Nev. May 7, 2013)) (the 11 court may look beyond the assertions of counsel to determine if a proper meet-and-confer was held).

12 C. Boilerplate Objections

13 The disputed requests for admission contain the boilerplate objections that the request is "premature, 14 overbroad, and unduly burdensome." See, e.g., Docket No. 72 at 3. Similarly, Defendant argued that some 15 of the requests called for a legal conclusion. See, e.g., id. at 7. Boilerplate objections are disfavored.
 16 EnvTech, Inc. v. Suchard, 2013 WL 4899085, *4 (D. Nev. Sept. 11, 2013) (citing A. Farber & Partners, 17 Inc. v. Garber, 234 F.R.D. 186, 188 (C.D. Cal. 2006)). Defendant, as the party resisting discovery, bears 18 the burden of persuasion on his objections. See, e.g., F.T.C. v. AMG Servs., Inc., 291 F.R.D. 544, 553 (D.
 19 Nev. 2013). Such a burden is not met by relying on "boilerplate, generalized, conclusory, or speculative 20 arguments." Id.; see also Aevoe Corp. v. AE Tech Co., 2013 WL 4701192, *2 (D. Nev. Aug. 30, 2013).
 21 Defendant's briefing fails to establish grounds supporting his boilerplate objections. While Defendants' 22 counsel at times mentioned some boilerplate objections at the hearing, see, e.g., Hearing Tr. at 10:11, the 23 arguments presented similarly failed to provide a sufficient ground establishing that the objections were 24 proper. Accordingly, the Court finds that Defendant has failed to carry his burden with respect to any of 25 the boilerplate objections.

26
 27 ⁷ Another portion of the letter indicated: "Please remit within seven (7) days of receipt." See Docket 28 No. 57-1 at 23. But the letter makes clear that Plaintiff was providing a longer period before he would proceed with filing his motion.

1 D. Lack of Sufficient Information

2 Every one of the disputed responses purports to deny the request for admission on the ground that 3 Defendant lacks sufficient information. See, e.g., Docket No. 97-1 at 3 (response to request for admission 4 1, providing boilerplate objections, then asserting that, “[w]ithout waiving the objections, Defendant 5 responds as follows: Defendant is without sufficient knowledge and information as to all of the allegations 6 contained in this request, and thus, denies them all”). “A general statement that [the responding party] can 7 neither admit nor deny, unaccompanied by reasons, will be held an insufficient response.” 8B Wright, 8 Miller, & Marcus, FEDERAL PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE § 2261, at 361 (2010). Instead, this type of answer 9 carries with it several requirements.

10 First, before making such a response, the responding party must undertake a reasonable inquiry into 11 readily obtainable information from persons and/or documents within the responding party’s relative 12 control. See F.D.I.C. v. Halpern, 271 F.R.D. 191, 194 (D. Nev. 2010) (quoting A. Farber & Partners, Inc.
 13 v. Garber, 237 F.R.D. 250, 254 (C.D. Cal. 2006)); see also Asea, 669 F.2d at 1245-46. This reasonable 14 inquiry requirement is similar to the duty owed in answering interrogatories. See Halpern, 217 F.R.D. at 15 193. What constitutes a “reasonable” inquiry depends on the circumstances of each particular case. See 16 id. at 194.⁸ Second, in addition to actually conducting that inquiry, the response to the request for 17 admission must “state[] that [the responding party] has made reasonable inquiry and that the information 18 it knows or can readily obtain is insufficient to enable it to admit or deny.” Rule 36(a)(4). A boilerplate 19 statement to that effect is not sufficient, as the party must “state fully those efforts” undertaken to obtain 20 the needed information. Halpern, 271 F.R.D. at 194.

21 When a responding party fails to comply with these requirements, the Court has discretion to order 22 that proper responses be provided or to deem admitted the requests for admission. Asea, 669 F.2d at 1245, 23 1246-47. Nonetheless, generally a court should allow the responding party to amend the requests for 24 admission and only impose the “severe” sanction of deeming admitted requests for admission where the 25 responding party intentionally disregarded its obligations imposed by Rule 36(a). Asea, 669 F.2d at 1247.

27 ⁸ In some cases, information known to a co-party to the litigation must be explored. See A. Farber 28 & Partners, 237 F.R.D. at 254, 256.

1 1. Failure to State that a Reasonable Inquiry was Conducted

2 As an initial matter, none of the disputed responses to the requests for admission complies with the 3 literal requirements of Rule 36(a) to “state” that a reasonable inquiry was undertaken. Defendants’ counsel 4 argues that this well-established requirement does not apply to the requests for admission in this case 5 because, rather than refusing to “admit or deny” on the basis of insufficient information, the responses were 6 written so as to “deny” on the basis of insufficient information. See Docket No. 83 at 2; see also Docket
 7 No. 104-1 at 5. The Court disagrees. Rule 36 does not contemplate denials on the basis of insufficient 8 information; instead, it provides that:

9 The answering party may assert lack of knowledge or information as a reason for failing to 10 admit or deny only if the party states that it has made reasonable inquiry and that the information it knows or can readily obtain is insufficient to enable it to admit or deny.”

11 Rule 36(a)(4) (emphasis added); see also 8B Wright, Miller, & Marcus, FEDERAL PRACTICE AND 12 PROCEDURE § 2261, at 361 (2010) (“In many instances, a party simply will not know whether the matter 13 it is asked to admit is true. In that instance it may reply that it cannot truthfully admit or deny the matter, 14 but if it makes this response it is required to set forth in detail the reasons why this is so” (emphasis 15 added)). When asked at the hearing what Rule or other authority allowed a party to “deny” for lack of 16 sufficient information, counsel was unable to articulate any. See Hearing Tr. at 10:07-10:10. Indeed, it is 17 hard to understand how an answering party can “truthfully” deny a request for an admission while 18 simultaneously asserting that he lacks sufficient information to respond to it. In short, an answering party 19 cannot avoid the requirements discussed above by framing his response as a “denial” for lack of sufficient 20 information.

21 As the disputed responses in question fail to state that a reasonable inquiry was made, they violate 22 Rule 36.

23 2. Failure to Undertake a Reasonable Inquiry

24 In addition to the above technical violation, Defendant also fails to articulate a basis for the Court 25 to find that a reasonable inquiry was actually undertaken prior to his assertion that he lacked sufficient 26 knowledge to respond to the requests for admission. In other briefing, Defendants’ counsel vaguely 27 asserted that:

1 Defendants paused and considered the reasonableness of their responses and objections 2 before asserting their responses, including the necessity of preserving lawful objections 3 available to them. Furthermore, Defendants considered the scope of the requests, and the 4 relative knowledge of the parties to whom the requests are propounded, and, based upon 5 those considerations, Defendants asserted objections that are not only based on existing law, 6 but were made after reasonable inquiry based on the circumstances relevant to this matter.

9 Docket No. 104-1 at 4. From this statement, it appears that Defendant simply considered the knowledge 10 he already possessed, rather than inquiring whether sufficient information could be acquired through readily 11 obtainable information. Defendant fails to identify any legal authority of any kind that pausing to consider 12 the reasonableness of a response and the knowledge already held constitutes a sufficient inquiry as required 13 by Rule 36. The Court finds that it does not. Cf. Halpern, 271 F.R.D. at 193-94 (discussing required 14 inquiry).

15 Moreover, it appears clear that a reasonable inquiry was not undertaken. For example, Defendant 16 asserted a lack of sufficient knowledge as to whether “[t]he statement that Jones allegedly [sic] made on the 17 morning of 3-31-11 in the ESP Phase 2 dining hall was not specifically prohibited by AR 707.” See Docket 18 No. 97-1 at 2-3. The Court takes judicial notice of the fact that, to the extent Defendant does not already 19 have easy access to it, AR 707 is available publicly online at 20 www.doc.nv.gov/sites/doc/files/pdf/AR707.pdf (last visited December 1, 2014). See, e.g., Calop Bus. Sys., Inc. v. City of Los Angeles, 984 F. Supp. 2d 981, 992-993 (C.D. Cal. 2013) (courts make take judicial notice 21 of documents available through government websites). Given that Defendant (1) knew the statement at 22 issue and (2) had ready access to AR 707, it is clear that the information necessary to admit or deny the 23 request for admission was already known or readily obtainable at the time of the initial response. There 24 was no basis for Defendant to respond to this request for admission by asserting a lack of sufficient 25 information. Counsel conceded as much at the oral argument. See Hearing Tr. at 10:05-10:07; 10:11 26 (Defendants’ counsel asserting that Defendant’s improper response was “simply my error”).
27
28

1 3. Requests for Admission Using the Term “Opinion”

2 Defendant also denied several requests for admission for lack of sufficient information on the 3 purported basis that the request used the term “opinion” and Defendant cannot know whether Plaintiff’s 4 alleged statement was meant as only an expression of opinion rather than as a threat. See, e.g., Docket No.
 5 72 at 7-8; Hearing Tr. at 10:20-10:21.¹⁰ By way of example, Request for Admission 5 sought an admission 6 that “David Lombardo informed you of Jones’ opinion. Admit or deny.” Docket No. 97-1 at 4. Similarly, 7 Request for Admission 13 sought an admission that “Jones’ ‘opinion’ as described by Officer David 8 Lombardo, did not cause any inmate riot in the ESP Phase II dining hall on 3-23-11. Admit or deny.” Id.
 9 at 6. Defendant’s contention that he did not need to provide a substantive answer to these requests for 10 admission is not meritorious. Indeed, Defendants’ counsel conceded that the initial response was improper.
 11 See Hearing Tr. at 10:21-10:22; see also Docket No. 72 at 8 (purporting to provide an amended response).

12 As an initial matter, in light of Plaintiff’s status as a pro se prisoner, Defendant could have 13 reasonably construed the term “opinion” to be a reference to the statement made. See Manley v. Zimmer, 14 2014 WL 1576857, *12 (D. Nev. Apr. 17, 2014) (“Because the Plaintiff is a pro se inmate, the court finds 15 it would have been reasonable for Defendant Rowley to interpret ‘normally’ to also connote ‘typical’ or 16 ‘usual’”). It is obvious to the Court that Request for Admission 5 was seeking an admission that Defendant 17 was informed of Plaintiff’s statement by David Lombardo and that Request for Admission 13 was seeking 18 an admission that Plaintiff’s utterance of that statement did not result in a riot.

19 To the extent Defendant believed the term “opinion” was objectionable, he was still under a duty 20 to provide a substantive response:

21 A party may not avoid responding based on technicalities. For example, a party who is 22 unable to agree with the exact wording of the request for admission should agree to an 23 alternate wording or stipulation. When the purpose and significance of a request are 24 reasonably clear, courts do not permit denials based on an overly-technical reading of the 25 request.

26 ⁹ This section relates specifically to the use of the term “opinion,” but the same analysis applies 27 to other instances in which Defendant quibbles with Plaintiff’s word choice.

28 ¹⁰ The responses to the requests for admission themselves do not provide such an explanation.
 29 Rather, the Court has gleaned that argument from the briefing and oral argument on the pending motion.

1 United States ex rel. Englund v. Los Angeles County, 235 F.R.D. 675, 684 (E.D. Cal. 2006) (citations
 2 omitted). Indeed, the Ninth Circuit has held that such epistemological concerns and nitpicking may be 3 cause for qualifying a response, but are not grounds for denying a request for admission. See Holmgren
 4 v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 976 F.2d 573, 580 (9th Cir. 1992). “[P]arties should admit to the fullest 5 extent possible, and explain in detail why other portions of the request may not be admitted. Failure to do 6 so may result in sanctions.” Englund, 235 F.R.D. at 685 (citing Marchand v. Mercy Med. Ctr., 22 F.3d 933, 7 938 (9th Cir. 1994)); see also Rule 36(a)(4) (“A denial must fairly respond to the substance of the matter; 8 and when good faith requires that a party qualify an answer or deny only part of a matter, the answer must 9 specify the part admitted and qualify or deny the rest”).

10 It is difficult to credit counsel’s assertion (unsupported by declaration) that her client did not feel 11 comfortable admitting, inter alia, that Plaintiff’s utterance of his “opinion” did not lead to a prison riot.
 12 Even crediting that assertion, however, Defendants’ counsel provides no explanation as to why he did not 13 respond by admitting that no riot ensued following Defendant’s statement, while qualifying his answer by 14 asserting that he could not admit or deny whether Plaintiff was merely expressing an “opinion” or making 15 a threat. That is the response required by Rule 36 in such circumstances. Instead, Defendant skirted the 16 Rule by stating without elaboration that he lacked sufficient information “as to all of the allegations 17 contained in this request.”

18 4. Appropriate Relief

19 As explained above, Defendant’s responses to the disputed requests for admission violate Rule 36.
 20 Defendant’s and Defendants’ counsel’s conduct has obstructed an orderly discovery process in this case.
 21 Plaintiff should have received, on April 21, 2014, proper responses to his requests for admission that he 22 could have used to narrow the issues in dispute and guide his discovery efforts. Instead, Plaintiff had to 23 file the pending motion and, now that discovery has closed, Defendant has indicated a willingness to amend 24 his responses. See, e.g., Hearing Tr. at 10:11. As Plaintiff aptly stated at the hearing, Defendant wants a 25 “mulligan” by claiming no prejudice has resulted from his failure to comply with the clear dictates of Rule 26 36. See Hearing Tr. at 10:24-10:26. Given the circumstances, the Court would be within its discretion to 27 reject Defendant’s plea and to deem the requests admitted. Nonetheless, for the reasons stated below, the 28 Court will not do so in this case, and will instead GRANT Plaintiff’s motion but ORDER new responses

1 to be provided that comply with Rule 36 no later than December 16, 2014. This order applies to all of the 2 disputed requests for admission, except request for admission 2, for which the Court finds no additional 3 response will be required because it is not sufficiently comprehensible. Defendant shall provide amended 4 responses to requests for admission 1, 3-6, 11-13, 16, 19, 20, 22-24, and 32. The Court warns Defendant 5 and his counsel that the Court requires strict compliance with Rule 36 with respect to these responses. To 6 the extent Defendant continues to assert insufficient knowledge, he must provide a detailed explanation as 7 to why that assertion is being made and must otherwise comply with the requirements of Rule 36.

8 As noted above, the Court will allow Defendant to amend his responses rather than deem the 9 requests admitted. The Court does so because it appears that the failure to comply with Rule 36 was the 10 fault of Defendants' counsel, who signed the request for admission responses. See Docket No. 97-1 at 16.
 11 Rule 26(g) imposes an affirmative duty to engage in pretrial discovery in a responsible manner, and requires 12 that a lawyer signing discovery responses make a reasonable effort to properly respond. See Green Leaf
 13 Nursery v. E.I. DuPont de Nemours & Co., 341 F.3d 1292, 1305 (9th Cir. 2003). For example, a signing 14 attorney must certify that the responses are consistent with the federal rules and warranted by existing law 15 or non-frivolous argument. See Rule 26(g)(1)(B)(i). When an attorney improperly certifies discovery 16 responses, she is subject to the imposition of "appropriate sanctions." See Rule 26(g)(3). Such sanctions 17 include, inter alia, the imposition of a court fine. See, e.g., Travel Sentry, Inc. v. Tropp, 669 F. Supp. 2d 18 279, 286-87 (E.D.N.Y. 2009) (affirming $10,000 fine). In light of the above, the Court hereby ORDERS
 19 Defendants' counsel to show cause in writing, no later than December 16, 2014, why the Court should not 20 impose upon her a court fine of up to $2,000 and/or order her to attend a continuing legal education 21 course.¹¹

22 Additionally, because the Court is granting Plaintiff's motion, the Court further ORDERS
 23 Defendant Zimmer and Defendants' counsel to show cause in writing, no later than December 16, 2014, 24

25 ¹¹ At best, Defendant's responses evidence a lack of familiarity with practice in this Court by 26 Defendants' counsel. Indeed, Defendants' counsel indicated that her failure to comply with the discovery 27 rules was "just a young attorney's mistake." See Hearing Tr. at 10:11. In such circumstances, the Court may 28 require counsel to educate herself to avoid similar mistakes in the future. See, e.g., Cabrera v. New Albertson's, Inc., 2013 U.S. Dist. Lexis 101497, *7 n.5 (D. Nev. July 19, 2013).

1 why the Court should not award Plaintiff his reasonable expenses in bringing the motion. See Rule
 2 37(a)(5)(A); see also Rule 36(a)(6) (“Rule 37(a)(5) applies to an award of expenses”). Plaintiff may file 3 a response, and a declaration outlining his costs, no later than December 30, 2014. Any reply from 4 Defendant and Defendants’ counsel shall be filed no later than January 7, 2015.

5 III. SECOND MOTION TO DEEM REQUESTS FOR ADMISSIONS ADMITTED (Docket No.
 6 86); ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE

7 This motion disputes Defendants Bryant’s, Arnel’s, and Wilson’s responses to numerous requests 8 for admission served by Plaintiff. See Docket No. 86. In particular, Plaintiff challenges Defendant Bryant’s 9 response to requests for admission 9, 11, 19, 24-27, and 33-36; Defendant Arnel’s responses to requests 10 for admission 6-7, 11, 17, 20-22, 29, and 32; and Defendant Wilson’s responses to requests for admission 11 2-3, 6, 9, 14, and 21-22. See Docket No. 86 at 7. Defendants’ responses to these requests for admission 12 are improper for the reasons already stated above with respect to Defendant Zimmer’s responses.
 13 Accordingly, the motion is hereby GRANTED and Defendants Bryant, Arnel and Wilson are hereby 14 ORDERED to provide amended responses that comply with Rule 36 no later than December 16, 2014.
 15 The Court warns Defendants Bryant, Arnel and Wilson and their counsel that the Court requires strict 16 compliance with Rule 36. To the extent Defendants Bryant, Arnel and Wilson continue to assert 17 insufficient knowledge as to any of the disputed requests for admission, they must provide a detailed 18 explanation as to why that assertion is being made and must otherwise comply with the requirements of 19 Rule 36.

20 In light of the clear violation of Rule 36 in responding to the requests for admission, the Court 21 hereby ORDERS Defendants’ counsel to show cause in writing, no later than December 16, 2014, why the 22 Court should not impose upon her a court fine of up to $2,000 and/or order her to attend a continuing legal 23 education course. See Rule 26(g)(3).

24 Because the Court is granting Plaintiff’s motion, the Court further ORDERS Defendants Bryant, 25 Arnel and Wilson and Defendants’ counsel to show cause in writing, no later than December 16, 2014, why 26 the Court should not award Plaintiff his reasonable expenses in bringing the motion. See Rule 37(a)(5)(A); 27 see also Rule 36(a)(6). Plaintiff may file a response, and a declaration outlining his costs, no later than 28

1 December 30, 2014. Any reply from Defendant Bryant, Arnel and Wilson and Defendants' counsel shall 2 be filed no later than January 7, 2015.

3 IV. MOTION FOR SANCTIONS (Docket No. 117); ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE

4 In or about February 2014, Plaintiff served a request for production on Defendants Bryant, Zimmer, 5 Arnel, and Wilson seeking “[a] copy of the investigative report generated by the inspector general’s office 6 in relation to the excessive use of force charge against B. Wilson.” See Docket No. 53 at 18 (Request for 7 Production 14).¹² On March 4, 2014, Defendants responded to that discovery request by indicating that 8 “[t]here are no documents that respond to this request.” See id. Believing that this assertion was 9 inconsistent with other evidence, Plaintiff sent Defendants’ counsel a meet-and-confer letter outlining his 10 concerns and he eventually filed a motion to compel. See, e.g., id. at 1-2, 9-10. Defendants’ response to 11 the motion to compel was due no later than May 5, 2014, but they failed to timely oppose the motion. This 12 prompted the issuance of an order to show cause why the motion should not be deemed unopposed. See 13 Docket No. 60. The Court further ordered that the response to the order to show cause must include any 14 and all arguments on the merits that Defendants wished to present in opposition to the motion to compel.
 15 See id.

16 Defendants’ arguments in response to the order to show cause and the motion to compel were 17 largely nonsensical, asserting that counsel believed amended responses had been filed with the Court, 18 discussing case law only with respect to requests for admission, and failing to meaningfully address the 19 response to Request for Production 14. See Docket No. 63 at 2. An attachment to that brief also appeared 20 to indicate that a supplemental production had been made serving a responsive document. See Docket No.
 21 63-1 at 2-3. Although the Court determined that it was in the interest of justice to consider the untimely 22 opposition brief, it granted the motion to compel as to Request for Production 14. See Docket No. 101 at 23 1 n.1, 3. In particular, the Court concluded that Defendants failed to carry their burden of showing either 24 that the discovery had been produced or that such discovery is not allowed. See id. at 3. The Court ordered 25

 27 ¹² Plaintiff’s motion for sanctions also requested Court action related to its order compelling 28 production of documents related to Request for Production 28. See Docket No. 117 at 1. At the oral argument on this motion, Plaintiff withdrew that portion of his motion. See Hearing Tr. at 10:36.

1 that “Defendants shall provide [a] supplemental response[] to Request[] for Production 14 . . . within 14 2 days of the issuance of this order.” Id. at 5. That order issued on July 28, 2014. See id.

3 On August 11, 2014, Defendants provided another supplemental response indicating that they had 4 now located the Inspector General’s report. See Docket No. 117 at 15.¹³ Even though the Court had 5 granted the motion to compel, however, Defendants did not provide a copy to Plaintiff. Instead, they 6 objected for the first time on the ground that the report was “confidential and must not be disclosed” 7 pursuant to N.R.S. 289.050(6). See id. In a puzzling maneuver contrary to that objection, Defendants 8 indicated that Plaintiff nonetheless would be allowed to view the document in the warden’s office. See id.

9 Plaintiff was not satisfied with this response and filed the instant motion for sanctions, indicating 10 that, inter alia, any such confidentiality objection was untimely and had been waived. See Docket No. 117 11 at 4-5. Plaintiff also noted that Defendants’ assertion of a privilege to maintain the confidentiality of 12 information in the report was nonsensical given that they were simultaneously allowing him to review it.
 13 See id. at 6-7. Plaintiff further argued that he was prejudiced by not having a copy of the report because 14 that would inhibit his ability to use the information in conjunction with motion practice and trial. See 15 Docket No. 123 at 9; see also Hearing Tr. at 10:39-10:40.

16 Defendants’ response to the motion for sanctions appeared to argue without citation that privilege 17 objections need not be made when initially responding to discovery requests, but only when ordered to 18 produce the document at issue. See Docket No. 118 at 3-4 (“privilege simply requests [sic] that you make 19 the claim and withhold the access; it is not tied to a timeline as Plaintiff asserts”). Defendants then asserted 20 for the first time that they “essentially” were raising an objection of “official information privilege.” See 21 id. at 4 (citing inter alia Kerr v. U.S. Dist. Ct., 511 F.2d 192, 198 (9th Cir. 1975)). Nonetheless, Defendants 22 failed to provide even the basic factual information needed to address such an objection. See Sanchez v.
 23 City of Santa Ana, 936 F.2d 1027, 1033-34 (9th Cir. 1990) (the Court must weigh the potential benefits of 24 disclosure against the potential disadvantages). Defendants also failed to address the case law indicating 25 that such an objection must be made in initially responding to the discovery request. See, e.g., Kelly v. City

26
 27 ¹³ At the hearing, Defendants’ counsel indicated that the Inspector General’s report was not found 28 initially because it was not linked in relation to the underlying incident, but rather to a subsequent grievance.
See Hearing Tr. at 10:41.

1 of San Jose, 114 F.R.D. 653, 669 (N.D. Cal. 1987) (“A party that receives a discovery request that would 2 reach material that it believes is covered by the official information privilege must, within the time 3 permitted by rule to respond or object, serve and file an objection that invokes the official information 4 privilege by name.”); see also Manley v. Zimmer, 2013 WL 5592328, *15 (D. Nev. Oct. 9, 2013) (“a 5 defendant asserting the official information privilege in a conditions of confinement case brought pursuant 6 to section 1983 should be required to invoke the privilege in its responses to discovery”). Defendants then 7 argued additionally that the information was confidential pursuant to N.R.S. 289.050(6), but failed to 8 meaningfully develop that argument, provide any case law applying that provision, or explain how they 9 were complying with that non-disclosure provision by allowing Plaintiff to review the report in the 10 warden’s office. See Docket No. 118 at 4. Defendants’ briefing raised more questions than answers.

11 At oral argument, Defendants’ counsel did not offer meaningful argument in support of her 12 objections. Instead, she asserted that there was no prejudice to Plaintiff because the report had been 13 delivered in its entirety to the law library the day before the hearing (i.e., more than seven months after it 14 was requested) and that Plaintiff could possess that copy. See Hearing Tr. at 10:42-10:44. Defendants’ 15 counsel asserted that the Inspector General’s Office had agreed to waive any confidentiality objection. See 16 *id.*¹⁴ No explanation was provided as to why that confidentiality waiver was not obtained prior to serving 17 Plaintiff with the supplemental response to Request for Production 14, prior to Plaintiff preparing and filing 18 his motion for sanctions, or prior to the Court expending its resources reviewing a fully-briefed motion and 19 preparing for the subsequent hearing. Nor was any explanation provided as to why Defendants’ counsel 20 was raising a privilege objection in the first place when the Inspector General’s Office apparently does not 21 believe that such an objection is proper. Instead, Defendants candidly acknowledged in their briefing that 22 they “are simply trying to keep Plaintiff from using confidential witness testimony during future unrelated 23 litigations.” See Docket No. 118 at 4.

24 In short, the situation now before the Court is a seven-month odyssey undertaken by Plaintiff to 25 obtain the Inspector General’s report. That journey included Plaintiff filing multiple motions, the Court 26

27 ¹⁴ As Plaintiff clarified at the hearing, the report was provided by the Inspector General’s Office to 28 Plaintiff through a separate subpoena that he had served seeking the report. See Hearing Tr. at 10:43-10:44.

1 expending its resources on multiple occasions, and the ultimate production of the disputed report from the 2 Inspector General's Office through a separate subpoena on the eve of the hearing on the motion for 3 sanctions. This is not how discovery is meant to be conducted. See Asea, 669 F.2d at 1246 ("The discovery 4 process is subject to the overriding limitation of good faith").

5 It is clear to the Court that some sanction is appropriate. Plaintiff's motion for sanctions does not 6 clearly articulate the sanctions he seeks regarding Defendants' failure to comply with the Court's order to 7 produce the Inspector General's report. As an initial matter, Rule 37(b) provides that the Court must award 8 reasonable expenses caused by the failure to comply with the Court's order absent a showing of substantial 9 justification or other circumstances making such an award unjust. Rule 37(b)(2)(C). Defendants and 10 Defendants' counsel are hereby ORDERED to show cause in writing, no later than December 16, 2014, 11 why the Court should not award Plaintiff his reasonable expenses in bringing the pending motion. Plaintiff 12 may file a response, and a declaration outlining his costs, no later than December 30, 2014. Any reply from 13 Defendants and Defendants' counsel shall be filed no later than January 7, 2015.

14 It appears that the imposition of costs alone may not be sufficient in light of the circumstances 15 discussed above. Rule 37 also allows for the issuance of any other "just orders." See Rule 37(b)(2)(A).
 16 Although not expressly enumerated in the text of the rule, court fines are among the tools available to 17 remedy the harms of discovery violations. See, e.g., Maynard v. Nygren, 332 F.3d 462, 470 (7th Cir. 2003).
 18 Accordingly, Defendants and Defendants' counsel are hereby ORDERED to show cause in writing, no 19 later than December 16, 2014, why they should not be sanctioned a court fine of up to $2,000. That 20 response shall also identify whether any such fine should be imposed on Defendants' counsel, Defendants, 21 or both jointly.

22 V. MOTION REGARDING DISPUTED INTERROGATORIES

23 In his reply brief submitted in support of his motion to extend discovery, Plaintiff outlined a dispute 24 regarding interrogatories propounded collectively on Defendants Zimmer, Bryant, Arnel and Wilson. See, 25 e.g., Docket No. 79 at 2. The Court then issued an order requiring the parties to address, inter alia, whether 26 the Court should construe that filing as a motion for leave to file a motion compel and, if so, whether the 27 Court should deem the motion to compel filed based on the arguments presented. See Docket No. 94 28

1 (citing Blaisdell v. Frappiea, 729 F.3d 1237, 1241 (9th Cir. 2013)). Defendants do not dispute that it is 2 proper for the Court to do so. See Docket No. 105-1 at 3.

3 While the Court construes the reply brief as including a motion to compel, it hereby DENIES that 4 motion without prejudice. The primary relief sought by Plaintiff in his reply brief is additional time to 5 “restructure and resubmit Rule 33 requests as to Defendants Bryant, Arnel and Wilson.” Docket No. 79 6 at 9-10. As discussed more fully below, the Court is granting Plaintiff’s motion to extend the discovery 7 period. Hence, he will already be provided the relief sought through resolution of that motion. To the 8 extent Plaintiff propounds these interrogatories and disputes remain, the parties should fully cooperate and 9 attempt to resolve any such disputes prior to seeking Court intervention.

10 VI. MOTION TO EXTEND DISCOVERY DEADLINES

11 Plaintiff has also moved to extend the discovery deadlines in this case. See Docket No. 62. Plaintiff 12 asserts that he seeks an extension of the discovery period by indicating that he intends to pursue “follow-13 up” discovery based on the additional discovery received. See Docket No. 62 at 3. In light of the 14 circumstances outlined above, the Court finds that such an extension is proper. The Court hereby 15 GRANTS the motion to extend and AMENDS the scheduling order as follows:

16 1. Any discovery motions shall be filed and served no later than January 30, 2015.

17 2. DISCOVERY: Pursuant to LR 16-1(b), discovery in this action shall be completed on or before 18 February 9, 2015.

19 3. Motions for summary judgment shall comply with the requirements of LR 56-1 and shall be filed 20 and served no later than March 11, 2015.

21 4. Any motion filed beyond the time limit fixed by this Scheduling Order shall be stricken, unless 22 filed with leave of Court.

23 5. EXTENSIONS: Pursuant to LR 26-4, an extension of a deadline set out herein will not be 24 allowed without a showing of good cause. All motions or stipulations to extend any deadline set herein 25 must be received by the Court at least twenty-one days prior to the expiration of the subject deadline(s).
 26 Any request to extend filed less than 21 days prior to the expiration of the subject deadline must be 27 supported by a showing of excusable neglect, in addition to good cause. All motions or stipulations 28 to extend discovery deadlines shall include:

- 1 (a) A statement specifying the discovery completed by the parties of the date of the
- 2 motion or stipulation;
- 3 (b) A specific description of the discovery which remains to be completed;
- 4 (c) The reasons why such remaining discovery was not completed within the time limit
- 5 of the existing discovery deadline; and
- 6 (d) A proposed schedule for the completion of all remaining discovery.

7 6. In the event that the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure provide for any shorter time periods for 8 the filing of motions or pleadings, said shorter time limits shall apply notwithstanding the time limits set 9 forth in this Scheduling Order. Pursuant to the authority given to the Court in Fed. R. Civ. P. 16(b), motions 10 for summary judgment under Fed. R. Civ. P. 56 must be filed no later than the time provided in paragraph 11 3 of this Order.

12 7. PRETRIAL: Pursuant to LR 16-3(a), the Clerk shall issue a Pretrial Notice Order five days past 13 the date for filing motions for summary judgment or all motions for summary judgment are denied, 14 whichever is later.

15 8. In all cases where a party or counsel is required to effect service hereunder, a certificate of such 16 service shall be filed forthwith with the Clerk of the Court.

17 VII. ADDITIONAL ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE

18 In addition to the above, there are several statements made by Defendants' counsel that the Court 19 believes warrant further explanation. As an initial matter, the Court notes that it has previously cautioned 20 Defendants' counsel that "the Court expects strict compliance with the Local Rules in the future." See 21 Docket No. 101 at 1 n.1. The Court has also cautioned that it "expects Defendants' counsel to undertake 22 reasonable diligence in submitting motions to the Court." See Docket No. 98 at 2 n.1. Despite such 23 warnings, Defendants' counsel has continued to file papers with the Court that may go beyond being 24 unpersuasive and into the realm of sanctionable conduct. This order to show cause relates to two 25 misrepresentations.

26 First, Defendants' counsel represented to the Court that "the Nevada Office of the Attorney General 27 currently has approximately 30 unresolved cases with 'parties' named 'Christopher A. Jones.'" Docket No.
28 105-1 at 4. Defendants' counsel then provided a list of those cases in a footnote. See id. at 4 n.1.

1 Defendants' counsel then relied on that assertion in arguing that objections to interrogatories should not 2 be deemed waived because the interrogatories were misplaced given all of those active cases. See id. at 5.
 3 Plaintiff's response asserts that there are actually only five active cases. See Docket No. 116 at 5.¹⁵ The 4 Court's preliminary review of the listed "unresolved" cases confirms that Defendants' counsel's 5 representation to the Court is plainly incorrect. Indeed, some of the listed cases have been closed for more
 6 than a decade. See Jones v. Lopez, Case No. 01-17062 (9th Cir.) (mandate issued on July 8, 2003 (Docket 7 No. 55)); Jones v. Cross, Case No. 3:98-cv-00316 (D. Nev.) (dismissal entered June 30, 2003 (Docket No.
 8 304)).

9 Second, Defendants' counsel argued that a party cannot obtain an order that requests be deemed 10 admitted so long as the responding party provided any response to the requests for admission. See Docket 11 No. 83 at 2 ("The plain language of the Rule thus provides that a matter is deemed admitted unless it is 12 responded to. Of course, as is obvious from Plaintiff's motion in which he quotes Defendants' responses, 13 Defendants responded to Plaintiff's requests. While Plaintiff may wish to dispute the adequacy of 14 Defendants' responses, he cannot dispute that Defendants did in fact respond, which renders unavailable 15 the remedy of having his requests deemed admitted." (bolding in original, underlying added)); see also 16 Docket No. 72 at 3, Docket No. 104-1 at 4. As explained more fully in Section II.A, Defendants' counsel's 17 argument is directly contrary to the language of Rule 36(a)(6) and controlling Ninth Circuit authority (see 18 Asea, Inc. v. S. Pacific. Transp. Co., 669 F.2d 1242, 1245-47 (9th Cir. 1981)).¹⁶

19 This Court has authority to issue sanctions based on legal and factual misrepresentations made to 20 the Court pursuant to Rule 11 and the Court's inherent authority. See, e.g., Rule 11(b)-(c); B.K.B. v. Maui 21 Police Dept., 276 F.3d 1091, 1107-08 (9th Cir. 2002). In light of the above, Defendants' counsel is hereby 22 ORDERED to show cause in writing, no later than December 16, 2014, why she should not be sanctioned

23
 25

 26¹⁵ Of those five cases, two are pending in the Ninth Circuit and one seeks habeas relief. See id. As 27 such, there appear to be only two prisoner civil rights cases pending in this Court.

28¹⁶ This authority was cited by Plaintiff in his meet-and-confer letter and briefing. See, e.g., Docket
 No. 57 at 7-8; Docket No. 57-1 at 24.

1 a court fine of up to $2,000 for each misrepresentation identified above.¹⁷ Plaintiff shall not make any filing 2 in response to this order to show cause unless the Court later orders that he may do so.

3 VIII. CONCLUSION

4 For the reasons discussed more fully above, the pending motions filed by Plaintiff are hereby 5 GRANTED and Defendants and Defendants' counsel are hereby ORDERED to show cause. To 6 summarize, the Court orders as follows:

7 1) Docket No. 57

- 8 • Plaintiff's motion to deem requests for admissions admitted, or in the alternative, compel 9 substantial responses (Docket No. 57) is hereby GRANTED. The Court will not deem the 10 requests for admissions admitted, but Defendant Zimmer must provide proper responses to 11 all disputed requests for admission (except request for admission 2) no later than December 12 16, 2014.
- 13 • In conjunction with the Court's resolution of Plaintiff's motion at Docket No. 57, the Court
 14 further ORDERS Defendants' counsel to show cause in writing, no later than December 15 16, 2014, why the Court should not impose upon her a court fine of up to $2,000 and/or 16 order her to attend a continuing legal education course pursuant to Rule 26(g).
- 17 • In conjunction with the Court's resolution of Plaintiff's motion at Docket No. 57, the Court
 18 further ORDERS Defendant Zimmer and Defendants' counsel to show cause in writing, no 19 later than December 16, 2014, why the Court should not award Plaintiff his reasonable 20 expenses in bringing the motion. Plaintiff may file a response, and a declaration outlining 21 his costs, no later than December 30, 2014. Any reply from Defendant Zimmer and 22 Defendants' counsel shall be filed no later than January 7, 2015.

23 2) Docket No. 86

- 24 • Plaintiff's motion to deem requests for admissions admitted, or in the alternative, compel 25 substantial responses (Docket No. 86) is hereby GRANTED. The Court will not deem the

27
 28 ¹⁷All potential court fines outlined throughout this order are independent and cumulative.

1 requests for admissions admitted, but Defendants Bryant, Arnel, and Wilson must provide 2 proper responses to all disputed requests for admission no later than December 16, 2014.

3 • In conjunction with the Court's resolution of Plaintiff's motion at Docket No. 86, the Court
4 further ORDERS Defendants' counsel to show cause in writing, no later than December
5 16, 2014, why the Court should not impose upon her a court fine of up to $2,000 and/or 6 order her to attend a continuing legal education course pursuant to Rule 26(g).

7 • In conjunction with the Court's resolution of Plaintiff's motion at Docket No. 86, the Court
8 further ORDERS Defendants' counsel and Defendants Bryant, Arnel, and Wilson to show 9 cause in writing, no later than December 16, 2014, why the Court should not award Plaintiff 10 his reasonable expenses in bringing the motion. Plaintiff may file a response, and a 11 declaration outlining his costs, no later than December 30, 2014. Any reply from 12 Defendants and Defendants' counsel shall be filed no later than January 7, 2015.

13 3) Docket No. 117

14 • Plaintiff's motion for sanctions (Docket No. 117) is hereby GRANTED. Defendants and 15 Defendants' counsel are hereby ORDERED to show cause in writing, no later than 16 December 16, 2014, why the Court should not award Plaintiff his reasonable expenses in 17 bringing the motion. Plaintiff may file a response, and a declaration outlining his costs, no 18 later than December 30, 2014. Any reply from Defendants and Defendants' counsel shall 19 be filed no later than January 7, 2015.

20 • In addition, Defendants and Defendants' counsel are hereby ORDERED to show cause in 21 writing, no later than December 16, 2014, why they should not be sanctioned a court fine 22 of up to $2,000. That response shall also identify whether any such fine should be imposed 23 on Defendants' counsel, Defendants, or both jointly.

24 4) Docket No. 79

25 • The Court hereby deems Plaintiff's reply brief as a motion to compel (Docket No. 79) and 26 the motion is hereby DENIED without prejudice.

1 5) Docket No. 62

2 • Plaintiff's motion to extend discovery deadlines is GRANTED and the scheduling order 3 is hereby amended to reflect the continued deadlines outlined above in Section VI.

4 6) Additional Order to Show Cause

5 • Defendants' counsel is hereby ORDERED to show cause in writing, no later than 6 December 16, 2014, why she should not be sanctioned a court fine of up to $2,000 for each 7 misrepresentation identified above in Section VII. Plaintiff shall not make any filing in 8 response to this order to show cause unless the Court later orders that he may do so.

9 IT IS SO ORDERED.
